EMPLOYMENT

- Instituto de Ecología y Biodiversidad (IEB-Chile) Santiago, Chile
Associate Researcher March 2019 - Present
 - Ecosystem Science: I'm an associate researcher in the area Ecosystem Science, lead by Dr. Juan Armesto, at IEB-Chile. The main project during this stage is creating a forest plot network in Chile in order to study the evolutionary biogeography of the Andean region.
- School of GeoSciences, University of Edinburgh Edinburgh, UK
Newton International Fellow Feb 2017 - Jan 2019
 - Global genus-level calibrate phylogeny: This project funded by The Royal Society, UK, was in collaboration with Dr. Kyle Dexter from the University of Edinburgh. The main goal was to create a global phylogeny and to build a big dataset of tree inventories across the Americas in order to study the evolutionary structure of biodiversity across tropic versus extratropics, and dry tropics versus wet-tropics.
- Instituto de Ecología y Biodiversidad (IEB-Chile) Santiago, Chile
Postdoc-Fondecyt Dec 2013 - Nov 2016
 - Phylodiversity patterns: During this project, we studied the similarities between phylodiversity pattern across the latitudinal gradient in southern South America, and across the elevational gradient in the tropical Andes.
